Bellaterra 9th March 2017

To whom it may correspond,

I am pleased to invite Associate professor PhD Giurgiulescu Liviu from Technical University of Cluj Napoc to visit Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona (UAB) in the period 10-13 April 2017. Within this visit it is planned to have meetings with the professors in Food Science and Technology area in the Veterinary Faculty to explore possible future academic collaborations. In particular, we will discuss together aspects related with the subject on food products derived from alcoholic fermentation I teach at UAB. Prof. Giurgiulescu Liviu plan to give a lecture on "Biotechnology applied in red wine Technology" to the students of the bachelor in Food Science and Technology. This talk will be open to all the UAB community.

The visit of Prof. Giurgiulescu Liviu will be relevant both for the scholars and for the students of the UAB.
